

How to Get FSSAI License for Flour Mill and Aadhar Udyam Registration ?

Introduction

Are you planning to start a flour mill business but not sure about the legal registrations? I often meet entrepreneurs who have the same question – do I need an FSSAI license for flour mill and how do I get my Aadhar Udyam registration done? Both these steps are very important if you want to run your flour mill smoothly and get recognition from the government. In this blog, I will share everything in simple words so that you can easily understand the process and benefits.

Why Do You Need an FSSAI License for Flour Mill?

When you start a flour mill, you are directly dealing with food products. Every food business in India, whether small or large, needs to comply with the Food Safety and Standards Authority of India (FSSAI) rules.

Importance of FSSAI License

- It ensures that your flour is safe for consumption.
- Builds trust among your customers.
- Mandatory for packaging and selling food products.
- Helpful in expanding your business to supermarkets or online platforms.

Without an FSSAI license, your flour mill business may face penalties or restrictions. So, getting this license is not just a formality, it's a protection for your business reputation.

Types of FSSAI License for Flour Mill

Depending on the size of your flour mill and turnover, you can apply for:

- Basic Registration – for small flour mills with turnover up to ₹12 lakhs.
  - State License – for medium-sized units with turnover between ₹12 lakhs to ₹20 crores.
  - Central License – for large-scale mills supplying flour across states or having turnover above ₹20 crores.
- If you are just starting, you can go for Basic Registration and later upgrade as your business grows.

Process of Getting FSSAI License for Flour Mill

I usually guide clients step by step in this process:

Collect documents – PAN card, Aadhaar, business address proof, photos, and business details.

Decide the category – basic, state, or central license.

Apply online with all the details.

Pay the required fees.

Get the FSSAI certificate issued after approval.

Once you receive the license, you can proudly display it in your flour mill

What is Aadhar Udyam Registration?

Apart from food license, your flour mill also requires business recognition. Aadhar Udyam Registration is the online process to register under the MSME (Micro, Small, Medium Enterprises) scheme.

This registration gives your flour mill the status of a recognized small business. It is fully linked with Aadhaar, which makes it simple and paperless.

Benefits of Aadhar Udyam Registration for Flour Mill

- Easy access to government subsidies and schemes.
- Discounts in electricity bills.
- Helps in getting bank loans at lower interest rates.
- Makes your flour mill eligible for government tenders.

How to Apply for Aadhar Udyam Registration

The process is quick and simple.

1. Visit the official Udyam registration website.
2. Enter Aadhaar number of the business owner.
3. Fill in details of the flour mill – name, type, PAN, bank account, and investment.
4. Submit OTP verification linked with Aadhaar.
5. Get your Udyam certificate with a unique registration number.

This certificate is valid for lifetime and does not need renewal.

Conclusion

Starting a flour mill business is a great step, but following the right legal process makes it long-lasting and profitable. With FSSAI license for flour mill, you assure food safety and customer trust. With Aadhar Udyam registration, you unlock growth benefits and government support.